- Practice delivering your introduction slowly and clearly, with enthusiasm and a smile
- Offer a copy of your resume or business card
- Research your targeted companies before you attend the fair

DOES YOUR ORGANIZATION HAVE AN EFFECTIVE LEARNING AND DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM?

If you want to develop a strong culture that drives consistently exceptional results, this may be a good time to consider developing one. In any organization, there are essential skills and capabilities that everyone needs to have, and expectations that need to be set for what “great” looks like. Organizations need to lay a foundation of a common framework by providing essential training as well as an individualized development plan for each employee or team member.

There are fundamental skills everyone needs as well as job specific and process specific knowledge and skills to ensure roles are filled with competent and capable people. This means we need to define what each role needs to know and provide a path to increase their competencies and future advancements.

The PWT team will work with you to develop a comprehensive training plan for your organization. Call or email us today!

CLASSROOM ENVIRONMENT

Our objective is to provide unparalleled customer service combined with high-caliber, cost-effective, hands-on instruction. All of our trainers possess expertise in experiential course delivery (role-playing, videos, interactive activities, etc.). Class sizes are usually limited to a maximum of twenty-five students to ensure that each participant receives individualized attention whenever possible.

INSTRUCTORS

We recognize the importance of using instructors who are experts in their respective fields. We have a portfolio of highly skilled instructors who can handle a multitude of training requirements and offer flexible scheduling by providing instructors for day, evening, and weekend classes (on-site or virtual).

COMMUNICATION STRATEGY

We design and develop partnership plans to ensure successful projects. We establish regular update meetings and a communication process to ensure clarification and understanding throughout the project. We also provide expertise to assist our clients in effectively communicating the benefits of organizational development programs and services. This requires the education and motivation of employees and other stakeholders affected on a regular basis. Our team designs, develops and effectively implements communication and learning strategy plans to specifically address and support our clients’ intended business outcomes.
